Synopsis

The introduction of Building Information Modelling (BIM) in infrastructure projects has enabled infrastructure design and construction industries to better manage the entire project lifecycle. BIM enables all project team members to effectively communicate work instructions and design concerns, especially during the design stage in reducing mistakes and the cost impact of such errors before the project's construction. However, implementation of BIM in Malaysia still has some pushback from Malaysian building, infrastructure and construction stakeholders.

This webinar will look at how project stakeholders may collaborate smoothly across horizontal and vertical aspects of infrastructure projects, and how they can use CAD, BIM, and cloud computing to improve design and project delivery. To show how to deliver your infrastructure projects utilizing the most up-to-date BIM for Infrastructure design and engineering tools which is available within Autodesk AEC Collection, both on your desktop and in the cloud. It is suitable for all Contractors, Engineers, Architects, QS as well as Developers who are keen to find solutions to this topic.
